$5,000 AWARDED GREENLEA DEATH

Jury Returned Verdict This Afternoon at 1:30.

Young Man Was Hurt By a Car and Died From His Injuries the Same Day.

FIRST BIG VERDICT OF TERM

The jury in the case of J. P. Pierce administrator of Malcolm Greenlea, against the Paducah Traction company this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock returned a verdict for $5,000 damages against the defendant for the death of Greenlea. This is the first big verdict for damages returned at this term of court.

Greenlea was employed by the Traction company as conductor and was running on a South Sixth street car shortly before Christmas. The Broadway car had run to First and Broadway and stopped. The South Sixth street car followed and while Greenlea was changing the trolley and standing between his and the Broadway car a Trimble street car crashed into the South Sixth street car and Greenlea was caught between the bumpers and his right leg mashed between the knee and hip. He was taken to Riverside hospital and late that day died.

The administrator sues for $30,000 damages. He claimed that the accident was due to carelessness and defective car machinery, while the company claimed that something had been maliciously placed on the track to cause the cars to slip instead of stop when the brakes were applied.

The case of J. W. Troutman, administrator of John Squires, against the I. C. road, was dismissed without prejudice. Squires was a section hand and while standing near the track was killed by a door falling from a passing freight train. The door fell from a box car. He sued for $2,000. It is understood the suit will be brought again for $10,000.

At press time the case of Mrs. M. E. Knight against the Paducah Traction company was going to trial. She sues for damages for personal injuries sustained in riding on the cars.

CAR STRUCK ROCKS

WAS DERAILED AND DASHED INTO THE GUTTER.

Mr. Wade Brown Had an Arm Wrenched But No One Was Seriously Hurt.

Street car No. 56 was derailed near Eleventh and Trimble streets today at noon but no one was seriously injured.

Some one placed rocks on the track and the car struck them with considerable force. It left the rails and went into the gutter on the south side of the street.

Mr. Wade Brown was standing on the rear platform of the car and one arm was wrenched. It was an arm which had been broken a short time ago but was not seriously injured again.

The car was but slightly damaged and when replaced on the tracks resumed regular operation.

SECRETARY COONS WILL RETURN SUNDAY

Has Some Big Propositions on the Tapis for Paducah.

Wants Commercial Club, Bankers, and College Committee to Meet Him.

MEETING TO BE HELD MONDAY

Secretary D. W. Coons of the Commercial club will return Sunday from New York, Washington, Louisville and Cincinnati, where he has been on business connected with the Commercial club's work.

He has written Mr. W. P. Hummel that he is greatly encouraged over several matters that he had up for consideration with people in these cities, and is anxious to have a meeting of the full board of directors of the club, the members of the Methodist college committee, and as many members of the Commercial club as can attend, as well as the bankers.

He writes that he has some big propositions on, the consummation of which means big things for Paducah, but that it will be only by hard and properly directed work, and financial assistance, that they can be consummated.

President Albert J. Decker, of the Commercial club, has therefore requested the press of the city to invite all members of the club to be present at the club headquarters Monday night at 7:30 to hear Mr. Coon's report.

G. W. TANNER GETS $50 AND TEN DAYS

Colored Professor Convicted of Carrying a Pistol.

Has Been Here Several Weeks Trying to Stir Up Trouble—and Finally Did It.

BENTON CASE NOT DECIDED

Police Judge D. L. Sanders held an important session of police court this morning. There were several prominent attorneys seldom seen in police court interested, the court room was packed with spectators and witnesses and court lasted several hours, not adjourning until 11:30 this morning.

The star case was that against G. W. Tanner, colored, charging the double offense of carrying a concealed weapon and flourishing it. E. W. Benton, one of the colored school teachers, was tried in the same case for malicious assault on Tanner, and Jack Jones was charged with a breach of the peace. Jones separated the two when they "mixed" last week near Seventh and Jackson streets.

The case grew out of trouble the two colored teachers had several years ago. Tanner alleged that Benton had alienated his wife's affections, but this was after Tanner had been put out of the schools and Benton given his position. Tanner left the city and remained away until a short time ago, and since his return had tried to cause trouble in the colored schools by alleged accusations against Benton, but the school board, knowing him, paid little attention to him and exonerated Benton in every charge. Benton last Sunday went to Tanner to get him to sign a written statement exonerating him from all charges or accusations made in any way, and Tanner pulled a gun. Benton grabbed the weapon with his left hand and struck Tanner with a walking stick he carried.

There was much evidence introduced, there being about fifty witnesses in the case, most of them testifying to the feeling between the men. Benton was represented by Judge James Campbell, Sr., and County Judge R. T. Lightfoot, and Tanner by Attorneys C. C. Grassham and Eugene Graves. The prosecution was conducted by County Attorney Alben Barkley and Prosecuting Attorney Tom Harrison.

At the conclusion of the testimony, the attorneys agreed that no argument be made and the case was submitted to the court.

Judge Sanders dismissed the charge of breach of the peace against Jack Jones and fined Tanner $50 and costs and ten days in jail for carrying a concealed weapon. He left the charge against Tanner for flourishing the pistol open until tomorrow and also left the case of malicious assault against Benton open until tomorrow. He stated that it was his desire to look into the law relative to the walking stick being a deadly weapon. The Tanner witnesses tried to show that Benton had the stick under his coat or up his sleeve hidden from view. Benton admitted in court that he was afraid Tanner had a gun and desired to have something for protection in case he tried to use the gun while he (Benton) tried to get him to sign the exoneration papers.

Several members of the school board, including Supt. Leib, were present at the trial. Judge Sanders in addition to the fine against Tanner recognized him in the sum of $500 for his good behavior towards Benton, and Benton for the same amount for his good behavior towards Tanner for a period of one year.

VOTE WAS TAKEN ON STATEHOOD BILL

Insurgents Were Defeated in Congress Yesterday.

The Vote Was Taken This Afternoon By Agreement of Yesterday.

THE STATEHOOD BILL PASSED

Washington, Jan. 25.—The house met at 11 today and immediately went into a committee of the whole on the statehood bill preparatory to a vote thereon at 3 o'clock.

When the smoke of the liveliest legislative battle of the session had cleared up in the house yesterday the speaker and his organization were in complete control and the joint statehood program of the administration had been adopted.

Forty-three Republican "insurgents" went down to defeat, having voted vainly with the Democrats to gain control of a rule, the terms of which are to govern the statehood bill in its passage through the house. The vote ordering the previous question on the rule was 192 ayes and 165 nays.

This clearly defeated the opposition, the full strength of which was polled and little interest was taken on the vote for the adoption of the rule.

The rule adopted, provided that the bill granting statehood to Oklahoma and the Indian Territory, as "Oklahoma," and Arizona and New Mexico as "Arizona" should be debated until 3 o'clock today and then voted on without opportunity for an amendment.

The statehood bill passed congress 194 to 150.

CASTRO MAKES FOR TALL AND UNCUT

Has Retired Fifty Miles to the Interior.

Has Kept the Facts of France's Intentions From the People of Venezuela.

BOMBARDMENT IS EXPECTED.

Willemstadt, Dutch West Indies, Jan. 25.—When the thunder of French warships' guns wakes the echoes in La Guayra and in Caracas, six miles over the mountains, Castro won't hear it for he has discreetly retired to Maracay, Miranda province, fifty miles inland.

And the Venezuelans who do hear it won't know what it means, for Castro has taken pains that his people should hear nothing about the rupture he provoked with France.

All news in Venezuela is censored in the most rigorous way and what little is permitted to be printed does not enlighten the public very much if the French warships shell La Guayra, as is expected, the newspapers undoubtedly will be required to say, as has been Castro's policy in such cases, that it is a wanton attack by hated foreigners.

Advices received here say that the dean of the diplomatic corps at Caracas, the Belgian charge d'affaires, has conferred with Senor Ybarra, Venezuela's foreign minister about Taigny's treatment in LaGuayra when he boarded the French steamer Martinique to get important instructions from his government and was forbidden to go ashore again on pain of imprisonment. The Belgian official pointed out that the diplomatic corps considers Taigny a member of the corps until removed by the government, and asked the foreign minister for an explanation of the position of the rest of the corps.

Ybarra evaded an answer and treated the Taigny affair lightly, remarking that Taigny "allowed himself to be caught like a rat in a trap."

It is claimed that Uhl has hypnotic influence over his aunt and he was not allowed to look at her while she testified. A mute sister of Uhl who has confessed he killed his father, will be placed on the stand this afternoon.

MARSHALL FIELD'S MANY BEQUESTS

His Will Was Filed at Chicago Yesterday.

Relatives, Employees, Friends and Others Were Remembered By the Merchant Prince.

MUCH IS TO BE KEPT INTACT

Chicago, Jan. 25.—By the will of the late Marshall Field, filed late yesterday in the probate court, Chicago is made a beneficiary to the extent of $8,000,000, which is to be used for the endowment and maintenance of the Field Columbian Museum. The entire bequest for the museum, however, is made upon the express condition that within six years from the date of Field's death there shall be provided for the museum without cost to it and which shall be satisfactory to the trustees as a site for the permanent home of the museum. If within six years the site has not been provided, the $8,000,000 is to revert to and become part of the residuary estate.

In addition to the sum left for the museum various bequests aggregating $17,568,600 are made to relatives and friends of the testator.

With these exceptions the entire estate is to be kept intact until one of the two sons of Marshall Field, Jr., grandsons of the testator, shall have reached the age of fifty years. They are now nine and twelve respectively. Marshall Field, Jr., died November 27, last, of a bullet wound accidentally inflicted while handling a revolver.

Executors of the will are the Merchants' Loan and Trust company, a bank in which Field held a great amount of stock, Chauncey Keep, an old friend of Field, and Arthur B. Jones, who has for many years been Field's secretary and confidential man.

The business of Marshall Field and company is to be maintained as a portion of the residuary estate.

The exact value of the Field estate has not yet been estimated.

The will and two codicils contain over 12,000 words and provide the exact manner in which each particular bequest is to be paid.

Among the bequests are: Various trust companies in trust for Mrs. David Beatty, of England, daughter of Field, $6,000,000.

Mrs. Marshall Field, the widow, in addition to her marriage settlement and the Field family home and all its furnishings, $1,000,000.

To the Northern Trust company, in trust for Mrs. Laura F. Dibble, and two daughters, sisters and nieces, $500,000.

To Mrs. Dibble and two daughters $450,000.

Northern Trust company for Mrs. Helen F. James, sister and three children, $500,000.

Howard James, nephew, $250,000. Merchants' Loan and Trust company, for Miss Nora Scott, sister of Field's first wife, $200,000.

Illinois Trust and Savings Bank, in trust for Marshall Field, Jr., and descendants, $5,000,000.

Mrs. Marshall Field, Jr., absolutely, and to the Northern Trust company in trust for her, a sum sufficient to make what she will receive from her husband's estate an aggregate of $1,000,000.

Merchants' Loan and Trust company for Gwendolyn Field, granddaughter, $1,000,000.

Arthur B. Jones, for many years Field's secretary, $100,000.

Various relatives, sums ranging from $10,000 to $50,000 each.

Field Columbian Museum, endowment and building fund, one half for each, $8,000,000.

Chicago orphan asylum, $25,000. Old People's Home, of Chicago, $25,000.

St. Luke's hospital, Chicago, $25,000.

A number of employees of Field and company, sums ranging from $3,000 to $50,000 each.

Also $100,000 to be divided among the employees who have been with the firm twenty-five years. Field's family servants, sums ranging from $1,000 to $10,000 each.

The children of Mrs. David Beatty, Field's daughter, are barred from participation in the division of the trust estate, unless all other heirs falling they come in as heirs at law. Mrs. Beatty's son by her first husband, Arthur Tree, may, however, receive such part of the mother's trust fund as she may direct in her will.

O O O O O O O O O O O
O JUDGE LIGHTFOOT SAYS O
O ONCE WAS ENOUGH. O
O O O O O O O O O O

County Judge R. T. Lightfoot does not believe in "roasting" a man in court simply because a lawyer has the privilege of so doing, and tells an amusing story in illustration.

"I was practicing law in Illinois," he stated, "and had handled comparatively few cases. I took a case which seemed hopeless from the start, but lawyers have to make a beginning and I took everything that came my way, whether I stood a chance to win or not. My client knew that he could not win but wanted the other party to the suit 'roasted' or 'skinned,' and told me he would give me $100 to do the skinning. Well, I skinned him all right and he took it all in silence. He never showed any expression during the entire talk I made, but at the conclusion calmly informed me that he desired to meet me after court down stairs.

"I had forgotten all about the request and was standing in front of the court house when he walked up. 'Lightfoot,' he declared, 'I am going to knock the regular d—l out of you,' and I knew he meant it. He was twice my size and when I picked myself up from the ground really did not know what had happened for several minutes.

"Now my client had suspected trouble and saw the assault. He stepped up to my assailant and the two mixed for several minutes. I do not know who got the better of the argument, but know that I was in a breach of the peace case next day representing my same client, and he was acquitted, too."

Judge Lightfoot declared that this was the first and last time he ever tried to "skin" or "roast" anyone in court when there were no grounds for it.

SURPRISE IN STORE FOR MANY PEOPLE

Supervisors Send Out Notices to 300 Property Owners.

That They Have Assessed on Diamonds, Pianos and Automobiles.

ABOUT $200,000 WORTH IN ALL

A great many people in Paducah will be surprised this week to ascertain that long-concealed diamonds, jewelry, their piano, automobile and such things, have been assessed for taxation.

When the supervisors are asked how it happened, they only smile and declare that they don't know. As a matter of fact, the county supervisors today began sending out notices to three hundred people, of raises in personal assessment. This list was obtained by some unknown person in some unknown way, and it is understood that the city supervisors also have it. It is not known where the list came from, or who prepared it, or, if it is known, no one will give out anything about it. Most of the persons on the list did not give in their personal property to either the county or city assessor, but some one, in some way, prepared the list and it is said that hundreds of pianos, diamonds and all the automobiles in the city have been listed.

The total valuation of the property represented in the list is about $200,000, it is understood, but when protests are heard, it may be cut down to $150,000.

It is said that about $10,000 worth of unassessed diamonds were found on one city block. Pianos and jewelry that have been owned for years and never been assessed before have been assessed this time, and there is likely to be considerable surprise when the notices are received by the owners.

One man voluntarily went in before the county board yesterday and stated that he understood he had been assessed for a diamond, and that he owned one, but had had it only since December, which would exempt it from taxation.

Another man had been boasting that he was the only man to give in his diamonds for assessment, and when the supervisors looked, they ascertained that he was mistaken, as he had not given them in. His diamonds are now assessed.

The supervisors say that thousands of dollars worth of personal property has never yet been assessed in Paducah, but they are getting next to how to get it, and every year they manage to add to the list.

The city supervisors are hearing protests now, but the county board is engaged in considering transfers of property. The county board starts hearing protests on February 5th.

The city board of supervisors also has a list of over 300 names, sent to it anonymously, it is said, and listing about $119,000 worth of personal property belonging to the people whose names are on the list. All kinds of personal property is listed, automobiles, diamonds, watches, etc.

Where the list came from, or who compiled it, is a mystery. A member of the board told a Sun representative today that they intended paying no attention to it, as it was "mere rot."

It is a subject of comment, however, among a good many people, and the automobile owners especially are interested to know what will be done with the automobile assessments. The city board has assessed them to the satisfaction of most of the owners, but the county board, it is said, has them assessed at about 75 per cent of their value.

It is rumored but not admitted that the anonymous list received by the city board is similar to the list the county board has. Many people are wondering why such a state of affairs should exist as to make it necessary, in order to collect just taxes in Paducah, lists of property owners have to be prepared by unknown people and sent in.

It is also being wondered if it is a fact that the lists the city supervisors have is the same that the county has, why the city supervisors should refuse to use it when the county supervisors used it.

Theatrical Notes

Tim Murphy in "A Texas Steer."

The friends of Tim Murphy in Paducah will be pleased to hear of the great success he is making in Chicago this week in "A Texas Steer," the Hoyt farce that first brought him recognition. His Paducah friends have always predicted great things for him and the following review of his work in the Chicago Tribune is evidence that their prophecies are in a way to be fulfilled:

"A Texas Steer," as it was revived at the Grand Opera house on Sunday, is worth the seeing. It affords an evening of clean, jolly entertainment, and it gives Tim Murphy a chance to do some acting which is as finely finished, as beautifully sympathetic, and as artistically complete as any character work that has been seen on the local stage in a long time.

Mr. Murphy as Brander the Texan who is forced against his will to become a congressman, and who, once in the office finds it distinctly to his liking, gives an impersonation which is of rare completeness and distinct homely beauty. He makes the old "yap" lovable from the moment he is borne in among his enthusiastic neighbors. The onlooker was reminded of the "Rip Van Winkle" of Joseph Jefferson during all of the first act. There is in the portrayed the same fine artistic finesse the same mastery of subtle suggestion, the same tender sympathy and innate gentleness which distinguished the master characterization of the master comedian. Mr. Murphy's acting in the first of "A Texas Steer" alone would make the performance notable and well worth the seeing. There is not a false tone, look, gesture, or movement in the entire act, and it is so filled with delightful, fine detail that it lingers in memory as a piece of perfect acting. And the second and third acts, although affording less opportunity than the first, are similarly well done. The same sweet personality is there, and the acquired dignity and poise, but add polish to its charm.

The Bossy of Miss Sherred is exquisite, too, in its naturalness, its simplicity, and its genuineness. It rings true in every speech and act, and the auditor soon finds himself completely under the spell of the player's winsome personality and her strong, firm, but lightly and deftly applied artistry weave. She is an actress who should gain for herself a place of worth and prominence if but given an opportunity.

"The Holy City."

Announcement of a performance of "The Holy City" interests theatre goers to an uncommon degree. The great Biblical drama and the sumptuous production given it, the strength of the acting company, the music and grand spectacle with which the play abounds, furnish dramatic satisfaction and scenic pleasure so complete and grateful that Managers Gordon and Bennett's enterprise is a leading feature in all columns containing theatrical news. The theatre-goer who is more pleased with brilliant spectacle and wonderful stage effects, has his wish gratified by lavish preparation and almost unprecedented execution. "The Holy City," will be the attraction at The Kentucky on Saturday matinee and night.

Why Suffer Agony Any Longer When You Can Get a Quick, Sure Cure for Your Piles by Simply Sending Your Name and Address?

MISS EDRINGTON

HAS RESIGNED AS CITY STENOGRAPHER HERE.

Miss Bertha Leming Will Be Appointed to Succeed Her.

Miss Byrd Edrington, stenographer for the city, with offices at the city hall, will today tender her resignation to Mayor Yeiser.

Miss Edrington was appointed to the place when the office was created last spring. The city work had increased to such proportions that it was an absolute necessity that a stenographer be employed. Miss Edrington has filled the position creditably and will resign because of the illness of an aunt, for whom Miss Edrington is caring for during her illness.

Mayor Yeiser stated this morning that he would appoint Miss Bertha Leming, who has been acting city stenographer for several weeks during Miss Edrington's absence, to the position. Miss Leming is an excellent stenographer and fully competent to fill the position.

BOARD OF WORKS TO BE ON TIME THIS YEAR

Will Have Everything Ready to Start in the Spring--Yesterday's Business.

The board of public works at its regular meeting yesterday afternoon ordered the city solicitor to inquire into the law relative to who must pay the cost of street repairs in addition to the city where streets have been built and opened by the property owners, and turned over to the city after a thin layer of gravel has been spread on the thoroughfare to make it look genuine. The question is whether the city must put on new gravel when it becomes necessary, or the expense falls on the property owner.

A new broom was ordered for the street sweeper, and a tracer was ordered sent out for the "cores" sent to Chicago for repairs some time ago and which seem to be lost.

The city solicitor was instructed to bring in for passage in the legislative boards an ordinance for the improvement of South Nineteenth street between Broadway and the Mayfield road. The people out there desire the street improved with gravel.

The street inspector was instructed to have an examination made of the street roller boiler to ascertain if it has been damaged by its use in furnishing steam to heat Riverside hospital while the boiler of the latter's heating plant was disabled.

City Engineer Washington was instructed to bring before the new legislative boards the extension of the sanitary sewerage from Ninth and Jones to the fire department at Tenth and Jones. The old boards ordered the improvement, but cold weather came before it was started, and as the preliminaries for the work have been completed, the matter is ordered placed before the new boards to ascertain if they are willing for the work to be done.

The matter of sweeping the brick streets during cold weather was brought up by Street Inspector Alonzo Elliott, who said he had not had Broadway swept for four nights on account of orders not to sweep without first sprinkling the street, and that if the street was sprinkled the water would freeze and make it dangerous. He was instructed to sweep during cold weather without sprinkling the street, but to do it at a late hour when the dust cannot annoy anyone.

The street inspector was instructed to clear some of the obstructions from the pavements on Kentucky avenue so the public may use them. The contractor did not get a chance to build the new pavements when he paved the streets, on account of cold weather, and in many places the sidewalks are now impassable.

City Engineer Washington was instructed to repair the drainage at Bernheim and 12th, 12th and Flournoy and at Fourth and Broad streets.

Mr. Charles Wistach was ordered to see why the signs containing names of streets, to be posted on the street corners, have never arrived. They were ordered sometime ago.

A contract was ordered drawn up with Wes Flowers for the bench on the market formerly rented by Flowers. He did not occupy it all the time last year and the board thought it would be advisable to rent it this year to someone who would use it every day, and declined to rent it to Flowers. The latter now agrees not to sublease it, and to sign a contract that it will revert to the city should he fail for thirty days to occupy it, and a contract to that effect was ordered drawn.

The board decided to have all ordinances passed, contracts drawn, and other preparations made at once for this year's street work so everything will be ready to start as soon as good weather arrives. Last year nearly the whole spring and summer were wasted in getting ready for the paving of Kentucky avenue and other streets, which carried the work into the winter and left the sidewalks in places in an almost impassable condition.

ed to the government's collection. Supt. Ashton had carried the dollar around for ten years without knowing that it was counterfeit, and when he thinks of the number of times he might have spent it but didn't, and how smoothly Uncle Sam took charge without rendering any equivalent, he is inclined to think that the joke is as funny as the others about the postoffice seem to consider it.

INDIAN BOY TO BE RICH MAN SOME DAY

Sells Land for Big Amount to Oil Prospectors.

No Law Against Woman Marrying a Woman—Congress Makes Record for Talking.

PECULIAR THINGS IN THE NEWS

Nowata, I. T., Jan. 25.—The transition of an Indian boy from a penniless son of nature to a prospective millionaire has been accomplished in Indian Territory in a day. In Nowata, before the master in chancery of the northern judicial district, oil and gas leases on minor Indians' land were sold, and among them was the land of Ben Byrd. Yesterday Ben owned 110 acres of river bottom land, valued at $10 per acre. The land was allotted to him by the government in return for thousands of acres deeded by his fathers to the United States many years ago.

Now Ben Byrd still owns the land and, besides, there is to his credit in the bank $10,120.

When Byrd's land was offered bidding became lively. The amount of bonus per acre climbed steadily upward, until it reached $92. Today Ben's guardian signed these lease and the bonus was paid over.

Today the lessee of the Indian boy's land got a contract for drilling 20 oil wells. The wells will have an average production of 100 barrels per day, and of this amount Ben will receive 10 per cent. At the prevailing price in oil the Standard Oil company will pay to the lessee $1,000 per day, and Ben's share will be $100 per day.

By the time he shall reach his maturity the Indian lad now 12 years old will be immensely wealthy.

Woman Can Wed Woman.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 25.—Pauline Webster, the woman who, under the name of John Whitman, "married" Miss Etta Jelly, of Sheffield, will escape any serious punishment for her act. There does not seem to be a law under which she can be charged with any offense worse than the misdemeanor of dressing in man's clothing.

Miss Webster did not commit perjury in getting the marriage license. The oath made in obtaining a marriage license is as follows: "I do hereby solemnly swear that I am of the age of blank years, that we are both single and unmarried, not first cousins, and that we may lawfully contract and be joined in marriage."

As there is no law against a woman's marrying a woman, it cannot be unlawful to contract that relation.

Church 188 Years Old Collapsed.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 25.—The ancient Catholic church at Temosochic, Mex., which was built by missionaries working with the Indians, and was 188 years old, has collapsed and is a complete wreck. Nobody was injured.

Present Congress Has Record for Talking.

Washington, Jan. 25.—According to the compilers of the Congressional Record, the present congress has done more talking than any previous congress since the first publication of the Record.

Up to January 16 the speechmakers had filled approximately 2300 columns of the Record. This exceeds the average record by 464 columns.

The nearest approach to the present congress was the Fifty-first, which, up to the middle of January, did a vast amount of talking.

Aged Man's Bride Vanishes With $1,000.

Quincy, Ill., Jan. 25.—Stephen P. Laffey, a retired and well-to-do farmer living at West Point, Ill., and a widower who has passed the age of three-score and ten, made overtures for marriage with Lela Lemon, of this city, who formerly lived at West Point. His proposition was accepted, and the terms of an ante nuptial contract duly signed, by which the bride was to receive $1,000 cash and to waive all rights to his estate, should she become a widow. He gave her a draft for the $1,000 and the couple were married by Judge McCrory.

Following the marriage the groom asked for a kiss, but the bride urged that this matter should be postponed. She then had her draft cashed and advised the groom to stay at a hotel during the night, and come and have breakfast with her this morning. The groom was up bright and early, but when he called to take breakfast with his wife he found that she had packed her belongings during the night and disappeared with the $1,000 and the written agreement.

THE ELECTION LAWS.

The legislature is not to be permitted to entirely smother the question of fair election laws, says the Lexington Herald. The bill which has the endorsement of the Louisville Bar Association has been submitted and its claims presented by representative lawyers and representative Democrats. Judge Gregory, whose loyalty to the Democratic party nobody will question, who has always supported the regular party ticket, has declared that another election in Louisville such as the one held last November will mean bloodshed. County Attorney Bingham, who has up to the present time, at least, had the favor of the regular Democratic organization in Louisville, denounces the certificate of registration as a device for fraud.

Senator Harbison having agreed to offer the Louisville bill in the senate and R. W. Miller, of Madison county, having consented to introduce it in the house, the legislature must say whether it will consider, or entirely ignore this question. It will be easy enough to evade the question if it is the intention of those who are in control to entirely ignore every demand for an improvement in the election laws. The Herald is not prepared to give its unqualified endorsement to the amendments suggested by the Louisville lawyers, but we would regard it as a serious mistake both of policy and politics for the legislature to fail to enact some legislation in the interest of fair elections.

Governor Beckham and the majority in the legislature are in a position of peculiar strength. Aside from what service they can now render the state they have the opportunity to fortify themselves in control of the party organization and the government. The opposition to any changes in the election laws will be strongest from the party leaders in Louisville. The governor has paid all of his debts to the Louisville machine. He has demonstrated his ability to lead the party without Louisville's support. The Louisville delegation was not essential to the administration plans for the organization of the present legislature. The administration program from beginning to end won over the opposition of Louisville. If the governor and his followers now make it possible for the people of Louisville to have a fair election and to control their own government, he will make himself strong where he is now weakest, and he will eventually have the support of the Democratic organization in the metropolis of the state.

The Democratic party in Kentucky should not, in foolish confidence in its power, ignore the warnings that come from the general spirit of independence amongst American voters. It may require some time for the citizenship of Kentucky to be permeated by this spirit, but even in Kentucky, which has submitted to much in the name of party regularity, there is a limit to popular endurance. The governor's policy as far as it has been revealed is eminently wise and progressive. If he can accomplish what has already been proposed and also secure the enactment of a fair election law, he will have won high rank among the most useful of his predecessors.

To read some of the juvenile effusions in local papers about the city light plant, one might be induced to think that a slight break-down night before last was due solely to the amount of money the present council appropriated for the plant—or didn't appropriate for the plant. Perhaps the machinery took offense at the repeated slights and broke down, but it is extremely doubtful for it ought to be used to such treatment by this time and able to stand it. The city light plant, to be candid, was a second-hand affair when it was put in. For several years there has been a persistent clamor for additional machinery, but it was not bought, and there is little more demand for it now than there was last year or the year before, hence the effort to spread the idea that the plant is being neglected by the new legislative boards is misleading and hypocritical. The plant broke down as it did night before last, two or three times before, and no new machinery was bought for it then, and it is presumed the same thing can be done now with as much safety and propriety as it was then. We are assured, however, that every possible attention will be given the light plant.

It is remarkable how anxious, willing and insistent some people are to spend other people's money, especially when the former are not responsible for where it is obtained or where it goes.

Marry at Lexington, and Have Reception On the Stage.

Two of the members of "The Clansman" company which was here recently were married at Lexington, Ky. They played the parts of "Nellie Graham," the girl who joined the Ku Klux, and "Gus," who is hypnotized into making a confession in the cave.

The Lexington Herald says: There was joy among the members of "The Clansman" company Tuesday night because of the wedding of Miss Claire McDowell to Charles Mailes. The marriage of these two took place here Tuesday upon the arrival of the company in Lexington for its engagement here.

After the performance Tuesday night the bridal couple held an informal reception on the stage of the theatre. A large and well-filled punch bowl was the center of attraction in the refreshment line. There were songs and speeches and well-wishes and congratulations, and the health of the happy couple was drunk a dozen times.

It is equally certain that no one having a regard for their health will accept a cheap emulsion or alcoholic substitute for Scott's Emulsion. It fulfills every mission of cod liver oil and more.

MAY DECIDE THE BIG PACKERS CASE AT CHICAGO.

Court Adjourns That an Agreement Between the Attorneys May Be Discussed.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—When the United States court convened this morning to hear evidence in the packers case, adjournment was taken until this afternoon on motion of the attorneys, who asked further time to discuss the adoption of some agreement which would eliminate the jury and cause the facts to be submitted to the court.

When the first witness had been called yesterday in the packers case the case was suddenly stopped and lawyers for the government and packers engaged in a long conference in which an attempt was made to reach an agreement as to what the facts were in regard to the investigation of the beef industry by Commissioner Garfield.

If an agreement is reached the necessity of testimony will be eliminated and the entire case will stand or fall, from the government's point of view, on the question of law alone, to be presented to Judge Humphrey.

Whatever his view would be after argument of the law, the jury would be instructed to return a verdict in accord.

A DEADLOCK

Is Predicted at the Joint Mines Caucus.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 25.—A joint conference of miners and operators in the Central competitive field went into session today. The operators demand a ten per cent. reduction in wages, while the miners demand an increase of 12 1/2 per cent.

Other demands of both sides relate to the working of the mines.

The indications point to a deadlock between operators and miners at the joint session. The miners will demand the admission of delegates from the southwestern district. The operators are strongly opposed to the admission of new territory and there seems little chance of the two interests reaching an agreement.

MORGAN CASES POSTPONED

Argument is to Be Made in Remaining Charge.

On account of the attorneys not being ready for argument this morning, the case against Edward Morgan for alleged disturbing a public assembly in attacking Principal Ragsdale in school last week, was left open. The attorneys have some technical points to argue on. A fine of $50 was assessed in the breach of the peace case.

When the warrant for disturbing a public assembly was called last Saturday it was claimed by the defendant's attorneys that he had already been fined, and that more than one fine could not be assessed for the same offense under different names.

LIVELY FIGHT

OVER PRIZING ASSOCIATION TOBACCO ENDS AT MURRAY.

Farmers May Have Tobacco Prized Wherever They Choose Here.

Murray, Ky., Jan. 25.—An important meeting of the Dark Tobacco Association was held in Murray, because of the dissatisfaction and tangle in this county. The result was that Mr. Whitel, who had been called on to resign the county chairmanship, accepted and Elbert Lassiter, the vice-president, succeeds him. Mr. Mart Logan succeeding to the vice-presidency. This is the outcome of the fight that has been waged in Calloway for an open-door policy, which means to give the farmers the right to say who shall prize their tobacco instead of being forced to send it to certain houses whether they wanted to or not, and is a result of the charge that the ex-chairman had not strictly complied with the constitution of the association. As a result the vast bulk of association tobacco which comes to Murray may be prized here.

If the chairman has been a "bone of contention" he is no longer. His resignation is absolute and final.

The people in general will be gratified to know that the only trouble in the entire district has been adjusted, and the farmers of Calloway are now free to take their tobacco to prize houses having facilities to handle it expeditiously.

The farmers have begun to realize

Better Await a Decision.

"I am not doing anything about the cow law ordinance," said Attorney T. B. Harrison today. "I am awaiting orders from the council. It is my opinion that it would be better to let the case we now have before the court of appeals be tried, as I firmly believe the city will win it. A decision will be made probably some time in April. If we have a new law passed it will be contested in the courts as the other one was, and this means a delay of probably a year again. Therefore, I believe, as we stand an excellent chance of winning the case in the court of appeals, it would be better to do nothing just now."

In the Bankruptcy Court.

An order of sale of real property in the bankrupt matter of L. C. and Will Linn, of Murray, Calloway county, has been made and the sale will be about the middle of March. Several days ago an order was made for the sale of some of the real property of L. C. Linn for the 17th of February.

MANY AID MOVEMENT TO TRACE BYERS BOY

Father's Means Exhausted and He Must Have Help.

Many Think the Missing Lad Met Death in Some Mysterious Way.

MANY TO HELP IN THE SEARCH

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 25.—As a result of the supposed kidnapping of Richmond Byers, the young son of Dr. and Mrs. L. S. Byers, of Seelyville, nearly two years ago, a movement has been started at many places in Indiana to raise a fund for further search. The private means of Dr. Byers has been dissipated by the long and fruitless hunt for a clew that will restore the lost child.

The Byers boy was believed to have been found at Paducah recently on a shantyboat, but it was some one else.

The new movement in behalf of Dr. and Mrs. Byers was due to the contributions of a number of traveling men who met at Covington a few days ago. The contributors declared this money is "to be used as Dr. and Mrs. Byers see fit, either to reimburse them for the money spent in a vain effort to find their boy or to prosecute further search," and, "furthermore, we insist that Dr. Byers accept this money without protest."

At Evansville recently Dr. Byers was made the victim of unknown persons who caused him to place $150 in a designated spot to get his boy. The persons obtained the money, but left no clew as to their identity or the whereabouts of the boy.

Dr. Byers' friends at the mining town of Seelyville have been helping in many trips to run down clews in eighteen months. At the time the boy disappeared 1,500 miners gave up two days' work to make a thorough search, going into abandoned mines, exploring ponds, cisterns, wells and like places into which the 5-year-old boy might have fallen.

Many persons believe he was not kidnapped by gypsies, but lost his life accidentally somewhere near home. The last seen of "Rich" he was a block from home talking to a stranger.

Bowser Tries The Bicycle

He Tackles It to Cure Rheumatism Through Advice of His Doctor.

MEETS WITH ACCIDENT

Mrs. B. and the Cook Come to His Aid With Camphor Bottle.

(Copyright, 1903, by R. B. McClure.)
It was Mr. Bowser's hour for coming home to dinner and the cook, who had the meal ready, had gone to the gate to see if she could see anything of him when Mrs. Bowser suddenly heard a great clattering on the basement stairs. She hadn't time to get out of her chair when the cook came running up and exclaimed: "Oh, ma'am, there's going to be trouble around this house this night!"

"What do you mean, Bridget?" was asked.
"Why, Mr. Bowser's got 'em ag'in."

"Got what?"
"The jimjams, ma'am. At least he's bringin' home one of them things they call a bike."

"In a wagon?"

"No'm. He's leadin' it along the sidewalk as if it was a calf. He'll try to ride it after dinner, and you know what that means. Dear me, but why did I ever come to a place where a crazy man is encouraged to run at large?"

Before Mrs. Bowser could reproach her she clattered downstairs, and Mr. Bowser appeared at the front door. He led his bike into the hall and stood it up against the wall, and as he saw Mrs. Bowser looking it over he observed: "Belongs to a friend of mine."

"I see."
"He is going on his vacation, and he asked me to take care of it for a couple of weeks."

"Yes?"
"Don't let the cook take the ax and break it up."

Mrs. Bowser knew that he had rented a bike at the repair shop not far away and intended to try for the third time to master the art, but she said nothing more, and the dinner was almost finished when he remarked: "That rheumatism has got down to my legs at last."

"That's too bad."
"I began to limp like a man with a wooden leg this afternoon, and I went around and saw the doctor."

"And of course he told you to frolic around on a bike."

"Oh, you are ready with your sarcasm, are you? Because he told me that riding a bike was the very best thing I could do you call it frolicking around! If I was nearly drowned and they were rolling me on a barrel you'd charge me with cavorting."

"I haven't charged you with anything, Mr. Bowser. If you have been told that riding a bike is good for your rheumatism I should say that you had better ride it. I'm sure I don't want to see you walking around like a stiff legged goat."

"That's more sensible. That's the way a true and loving wife should talk. I have tried twice to learn how, but gave it up each time after a fall. I'll stick to it this time or break all my ribs. You think I can learn, don't you?"

"Well, your legs are pretty short, you know."

"I haven't got legs on me as long as a clothes prop, but I can't see why you should call them short."

"And then you are fat and lanky. You are what they call a pudgy man, and pudgy men seldom—"

"What's that?" he shouted as he rose from the table. "Why what right do you call me pudgy? When did you discover that I was fat and lanky?"

"I didn't mean that exactly. I mean that you—"

"Woman, what did you mean? I may not be as thin as a rail, but I am no hoghead on wheels. It's that infernal envy, that jealousy, showing itself, and by the old Harry, if there is any more of it you'll hear something drop! Here I am, bent almost double with rheumatism, and yet you are jealous because I am going to ride a bike a few times around the back yard."

"It is not that at all," protested Mrs. Bowser. "I was thinking how things happened before."

"Well, how did things happen? I haven't heard that the earth stood still because my old bike ran into the fence. By the way, I've always believed you gave it a push behind."

"I wasn't within fifty feet of you when you fell. You remember the boys, don't you?"

"And what of the boys?"

"They called you a whale and an

REPRESENTATIVE

TO ATTEND EAGLE BANQUET AT BELLEVUE.

A Few Notes of the Press Association's Meeting at Frankfort, Kentucky.

Yesterday's Frankfort State Journal says:

Louis P. Head, member of the legislature, but a newspaper man in all its various branches, was circulating among the editors and seeing that all had a good time.

Hon. L. P. Head, representative from McCracken county, who is also state organizer of the Order of Eagles, has accepted an invitation to attend the annual Eagle's banquet at Bellevue tonight as the guest of Mayor George Emig.

The new reporter had written: "He died of Bright's Disease of the kidneys." The next day John Gaines of the Park City News called him in. "See here," he said, "you say this man died of Bright's Disease of the kidneys. If ever you get a story where the man dies of Bright's disease of anything else except the kidneys, you will have a cracking item."

"I suppose," said a Western Kentucky newspaper man last night, "that the paper having the greatest amount of talent on it of any paper ever started in Kentucky, other than a daily paper, was the old Bowling Green Intelligencer. Polk Johnson and Emmett Logan were the editorial writers; John C. Underwood, then in his prime, was the business manager while Col. J. Stodgare Johnson and Major Henry Staunton were regular contributors to its columns. The local field was looked after by D. E. O'Sullivan, Elmer Porter and James M. Hines. Of course these men were too big for the paper and it soon played out."

The Reason.

Guest (in country hotel)—Oh my bill you charge $3 for a rabbit. Landlord—I know, on it's worth it. I strained my back and swore myself out of the church catching that rabbit.

CHAPTER XX.

"YOU will remember," said Sercombe, "that the last time I saw you was when we rode back to the Woodman with that cart before us. You know well enough what was there. Well, I didn't even inquire if you had looked. But I guess I know a smart man when I see him, and, Mr. Greator, I took off my hat to you on that same occasion—the more particularly as you served me to a nicety. I was near done on that event—as close a shave it was as I have ever seen. I thought I had my eyes sharply set in my head, and I think I have, but Mr. Hood needs four eyes on him, and one in the middle besides. He had me in the half light, and I found he meant to bolt for it. We got those trinkets out by the passage, and a nasty job it was.

got the notion of using me. We've been in some tight corners before, but I never saw him at his worst till now. Hood's a gem. He's a special creation. By thunder, gentlemen, your notion of Hood is that of a month old child's! I know him, and I wish to know no more of his kidney. Well, no use to dwell on that. You'll see I had reason."

"Ode thing captain," I interposed. "How did Hood know of this treasure?"

"Know?" said Sercombe. "Why, he wouldn't be a day in Jerusalem without smelling out some mystery. He has a nose like a pointer's. He routed out a page of the old gentleman's diary, and Hood's way is not to leave to others what he can take for himself. I tell you that he hung on to the old chap day by day, until it got too hot for him and he was sacked, but even then old Kesteven kept his tongue quiet. It wasn't his interest to speak the truth, and Hood and he, as I understood, were as civil as oranges. Mr. Greator, can tell you. But then came that affair of the paper, and if it hadn't been for your sharp ears, Mr. Greator, he'd have got what he wanted even if he had had to stab the old man to his reins. But that failure threw him back, and that was when he wrote to me and I beat up the Greeks.

"Well, Hood fetched the cart up at the inn, and there was that mess about the servant, poor devil! This confounded me, but Hood saw the advantage, and, you being taken up with the crowd, whipped off his nag. By and by he comes down upon me and gives me the tip, and Stamboulis and I got away with the booty. If I say that I would have served him as he had tried to serve me there's no one will blame me. But the fact was he had got over my Greeks. That was the pinch.

"We got away through the forest and came by a place with a cavern, where the Greeks were in hiding. There we stowed cart and all. It was a sang hole, but I've never yet fathomed the hold that Hood had over those beasts that they let the stuff alone. But they did, and that's one to the man, boot-black, valet and cutthroat that he is. In that hole we lay for a day or two, and the news came that the police were out, but I imagined it was the Greeks they wanted, not me; not that I should have minded. Finally, the morning before this, up popped Hood about 3 o'clock, when all were asleep, and tapped me on the shoulder. I sleep pretty lightly, and I was out and talking with him in a minute or two.

"This wood's safer than I thought," he said. "We can move when we like. I have filled Jones with stories, and we can make a bold stroke now that the castle is quiet. They've had enough for a time, I think, and, what with the police, they'll have enough to do to look after themselves, as I have arranged it. Can you sail a boat?" said he.

"A little," said I, "as you ought to know."

"Yes, sir! I forgot," said he, falling unconsciously into the old habit of a servant. "Well, suppose we rush for it, now all's clear?"

"What's your game?" I asked.

"I've got a boat down by the Ray," he said, "and we can make for the channel."

"Well, it sounds good," I replied, "though it's risky. But the Greeks are all sailors, and we can manage at a shift."

"At that he looked rather strangely at me and was silent. He moved off a bit and peeped into the cavern through the bushes; then he came back. 'They sleep pretty sound,' he said and again gave me an odd glance.

"What is it?" I asked, for I knew his ways and that there must be something underneath.

"The Greeks are a nuisance," he observed, watching me. "We can do well enough without them."

"I thought I began to see now, and said: 'I am not in much need of them myself, but how can we give them the slip? We can't fetch out the cart and harness and get away without waking the whole brood.'

"No," said he softly: "I wasn't thinking of that."

"Well, let's have it," said I.

"He stared at me a moment. 'We don't want any evidence against us, and we don't want partners,' he said. 'We don't,' I agreed.

"There's another way out," he said, with his furtive eyes upon me.

"Suddenly the whole business flashed upon me. And, gentlemen, what do you suppose he was proposing? Nothing less than the murder of those poor devils as they lay in their sleep. You think I judged too quickly. Wait a bit. The thing came upon me in an illumination. I believe it was his eyes that did it. But I said nothing of what I felt; what I said was this:

"There's no other way out that I can see, and if there was another way I wouldn't take it," and I looked at him very closely, so that he should see what I meant. He dropped his eyes.

"All right," he said. "You'd better go and lie down. I'll think it out."

"I went, for I was pretty sleepy, and, besides, I thought I had disposed of that worm in his head. And presently I got to sleep, but it couldn't have been long, for I was awakened by some sound in the night and sat up. The Greeks were snoring about me, but somewhere I could hear a regular noise, struck at intervals and coming from a little way off. It was still dark, but I guided my steps to the sound, and what do you think I found? Mr. Greator, gentlemen, it has a nasty sound, and might very well go for a lie in another man's mouth."

Sercombe took a slip from his glass. "I struck a match, and there were some feet of earth piled just in front of me and below that a man digging—digging, with his head at the level of my feet. He started at my light and uttered an exclamation, and then stopped, looking at me. We watched one another till the light went out. Then I stepped forward and grabbed his neck.

"By the Lord," I cried, "I am in two minds to throttle you and make this place a grave for yourself! And, by George, I would have done it for two pins! He wriggled in my grasp, and I jerked him up and landed him on the surface.

"Look here, Hood," said I, releasing him. "I've known your bad qualities for ten years, and I've seen you do things that beat most things I've seen, but I haven't come to this, nor you won't, while I'm by."

"Very well," said he, like a lamb. "I'll fill it in." And he never said another word.

"I went back to the cave, but this time I was not going to sleep, for I would not trust that black devil any more than Beelzebub. A little after I took a sleepy fit on me, but I fought against it tooth and nail. I sat up, with my back to the rock, and looked out of that window, as you might call it, at the growing light. Of Hood I got no sign, and there I sat and yawned and swore and pitched myself to keep my eyes open until one by one the Greeks stirred about me, kicked their legs and opened their eyes. Then I knew that my vigil was over, and when Stamboulis got up, shook himself and went outside to look at the morning I reckon I fell asleep.

"I slept very heavily for an hour or two, for when I awoke the sun stood high in the heavens. But not a sign of living human creatures was there about me. I sat up sharply, thinking that Hood had played the trick upon me as I had thought of playing it on the Greeks. So up I got, wondering where the deuce they all were, and I issued out of the mouth of the cave. As I came forth my eyes fell on a group of them standing together in close conference just before the cavern, but there was no Hood. I went up to Stamboulis, the very man I had with me in the Ionian Islands, and to my amazement he turned sharply away.

"Hello, souny!" said I in surprise, but without reply they all vanished into the wood and left me staring after them with a mouth wide open. What had come to them? I asked myself and gaped for an answer.

"I thought I was bewitched. There was still no Hood, and presently I sat down to breakfast, and the Greeks returned and grouped together a little way off. But when I approached they sat silent and gave me no answer till, getting beyond toleration, I seized two and cracked their heads together. But, upon that, up leaped one of the scoundrels and drew his knife on me. I stepped back, but Stamboulis, a dirty thief, took him by the arm and whispered in his ear, and there were no dodges all round the party.

NEW MARKET HOUSE.

Sentiment Seems to Be Turning in Regard to Another One.

It is not probable that an experiment with another market house will be undertaken yet awhile. It is claimed by some that while the present market is too small, another one somewhere else would not prove profitable to the city. The benches in the present market house are all rented. If there were a dozen more benches in the present market house, they could also be rented. But it is not by any means certain that benches in a market house anywhere else could be rented. In fact, it is said that while many people would be willing to rent a bench in the main market house, few would want to take any chances in a branch market house somewhere out in the city. It is stated by some of the butchers that they don't believe a single butcher could be found willing to rent a stall in a branch market house.

GROUND HOG DAY

ALREADY BEING DISCUSSED DOWN ON MONKEY WRENCH CORNER.

Some Say Mister Hog Comes Out of His Winter Home On Feb. 2, Others Say Feb. 11.

The annual argument about "ground hog day" is already bobbing up again in river circles. Some people down about Monkey Wrench Corner will tell you it is Feb. 2nd, and others will show to his satisfaction, that it is Feb. 14th. Whatever day it is, the old fellow is evidently yawning in his hole such pretty weather as we have had the past few days, and preparing for his appearance at an early date.

February 2nd is the more generally accepted date of the ground hog's appearance, and if he sees his shadow he is supposed to go back into his hole for a six weeks' longer nap, and we get six weeks more of winter weather.

Local prognosticators say we shall have a late spring this year because of unusual mildness of the winter, and some people are already borrowing trouble on that score. Easter comes a week earlier than last year, on April 15th, and this means the season will not be as good as last year.

The mild weather has brought out a new crop of grass, probably the first grown in out-doors at this stage of winter for many years.

Persons who visit Oak Grove state that the grass is beginning to crop out fresh and green on fertile flower beds and at the Carnegie library new grass is beginning to show in spots. It is reported all over the city that similar cases are found.

Free Reclining Chair Cars.

This line also operates free reclining chair cars on night trains from Lexington and Danville to St. Louis, also Pullman sleeper through from Danville to St. Louis. The Southern railway is 23 miles the shortest from Louisville to Danville and 43 miles the shortest to St. Louis.

REPORT WAS CORRECT.

The Sun Made No Mistake in School Investigation Statements.

The statements in yesterday's Sun about the board of education grievance committee's investigation of the suspension of a boy from Prof. Ragsdale's school was correct in every particular except where it said the boy's mother, it should have been step-mother, and various school officials said so today. The grievance committee has reached no report, which the Sun stated yesterday. Every point in yesterday's article was correct in every particular. One member of the committee was under the impression that the paper stated that the matter would be ignored, but no such statement as that was made. The Sun merely said: "The grievance committee of the board has not yet decided on its report, but it is possible may decide to ignore the whole affair."

Rev. Carlisle P. B. Martin, L. L. D. Of Waverly, Texas, writes: "Of a morning, when first arising, I often find a troublesome collection of phlegm which produces a cough and is very hard to dislodge; but a small quantity of Ballard's Horehound Syrup will at once dislodge it, and the trouble is over. I know of no medicine that is equal to it, and it is so pleasant to take. I can most cordially recommend it to all persons needing a medicine for throat or lung trouble." Sold by Alvey & List.

The Adventures of "Skylark Holmes" and His Second Day in Paducah

Well, well, I am certainly having a good time in Paducah. To essay a role like, mine you have to learn how to enjoy yourself alone, and that I have mastered.

Tuesday night I attended The Kentucky and saw the Jewell Stock Co., present one of the best shows of its kind I have seen this season. I enjoyed it so well that I attended the performance again Wednesday at the matinee. Tonight they present Jesse James, our old friend, and I shall take that in too. If you want to see me, listen: I shall occupy the right hand box wear a brown suit, and you should easily "spot me," but understand that I can not be captured at the show. To evidence to you I attended the performance Friday I shall describe a few people who were there.

Wednesday morning at 11:30 I walked down to the river, and counted seven big boats tied at the wharf. I wish I could be as conspicuous as one of the boats, but I have my role to play and must do it. On the way back to the Palmer for dinner I saw a little, handsome, black-eyed gentleman dressing Rudy. Phillips & Co.'s windows, and I must say these people certainly put good goods in their windows. I don't see how any woman, with an eye for the beautiful in dress, can stand to pass this store without spending all her spare change. I shall make a purchase there in a few days. Watch the papers and see what time I shall be there.

I dropped in Sam Gott's for a bottle of Budweiser, the beer that is great. I came on down Broadway and was struck with many beautiful show windows of your stores. Geo. Rock & Co.'s is one of the prettiest I have seen anywhere. I went in the store and must confess the two gentlemen who own it, Messrs. Bringhurst and Koger are as clever gentlemen as I have met in my wanderings. I noted that they are agents for the Walkover shoe, one of the best I know of.

Friday at 4 p. m. I shall stand on the southeast corner of Third and Broadway and to the one who approaches me and says, "Ah, I have you now. You are the mysterious 'Skylark Holmes,' of the Paducah Daily Sun," I shall take to The Sun office and give $25 in gold. You must have the latest edition of the paper in your hand.

Yours for a lark,
SKYLARK HOLMES.

PLAIN CLOTHES MEN

Receive Many Compliments From Visiting Detective.

Paducah is fast gaining a reputation for her excellent police work, and a great portion of the credit is due to the plain clothes men.

Since the office of detectives was created by the commissioners the detectives have been working hard and have succeeded in locating many prisoners and assisting other secret service men in locating fugitives in other cities.

Of late there have been many detectives in Paducah and they express great surprise at the size of the town and enterprise shown by the city government and public in general. The work of the police department is also highly complimented and Paducah now ranks high in the estimation of the police departments of great cities, a quality that goes to help a city almost as much as any other.

Engine Went Into the Pit.

A hostler let an engine, No. 1726, get away from him last night, and disabled the I. C. turntable for several hours. The engine backed off the tracks and the tender went into the pit. It required the services of several engines and a delay of several hours before the tank was gotten out. The tank was damaged but slightly.

On Where the Microbe Came From Depend Life and Liberty of Kentuckian

Danville, Ky., Jan. 25.—A microbe will either land Edward Williams in the penitentiary or set him free.

Last July Williams and Samuel Landy, a wealthy merchant engaged in a quarrel over a trival matter, and Williams struck Landy on the head with an old brick fracturing his skull.

Physicians pronounced the wound serious, although not necessarily fatal, unless complications should arise. Eight days later Landy died of lockjaw.

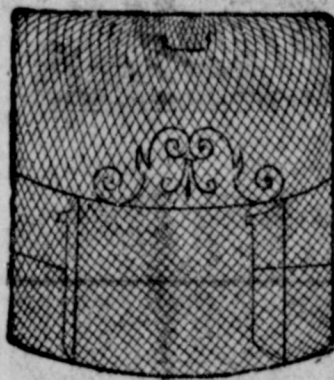

Eight or ten of the leading physicians of the Bluegrass were summoned, and testified that lockjaw cannot be contracted unless by microbe.

The attorneys for Williams claim that unless it could be proved beyond a reasonable doubt that Williams caused the microbe to take up its abode in the wound he could not be held responsible for the murder. Evidence was produced showing that Landy, against the advice of his physician, had rubbed common tallow on the wound, and that upon another occasion had spread a horse blanket out in the yard and taken a nap upon it. The physicians were again called and the fact brought out that lockjaw microbes are especially common around barns; although other physicians held that they existed in ordinary tallow, such as Landy used upon the wound. Still others claim that old bricks are their favorite dwelling place.

The case is attracting wide attention the courthouse being crowded every day. The microbe question was never before brought into a case in this circuit court.

Disappointed in Love.
Calhoun, Ky., Jan. 25.—Henry Casey, a well-to-do farmer of this county shot himself at the home of Frank McDaniels Sunday night at 9 o'clock, but his body was not discovered until Monday morning. The suicide is supposed to have been caused by a love affair as in the young man's pocket was found a note addressed to his sweetheart, which reads as follows: "You probably know why, darling, I do this crime. I have told you so often that I couldn't endure the refusal of my proposal. I love you and can't help it, and owing to our past trouble in love affair we will separate forever in this life. I hope to meet you in heaven."

The young people had been engaged for several months, and were to have been married at an early date. The young woman it is said, however, put off the ceremony several times.

Casey's body was found in the public road in front of the gate of his sweetheart's home, with a bullet wound from a thirty-eight caliber pistol through the breast. The weapon was found by his side.

He boarded a south-bound freight train and just this side of Iron Ore Hill got his right foot caught in the draw-head and mashed. The instep was swollen so that it was impossible to replace his shoe. The flesh was not broken and the foot will not be amputated.

CORNER ON TOMATOES.

The Canned Supply is About All Exhausted.

Canned tomatoes have for the first time been successfully "cornered." The festive "love apple," as the Indians call the luscious vegetable, costs just twice as much now as it did last January. A syndicate holds 90 per cent. of what is left of an extremely short crop, and there is no relief in sight till the fresh crop comes next July.

With the schedule of prices given out by the "syndicate," the householder will have to pay 15 cents for a three-pound tin of tomatoes, which used to cost 8 cents.

Big Contract.

Col. A. J. Slaughter, the brick manufacturer, has just returned from the growing town of La Center where he closed a contract to furnish a half million brick for that place this year.—Murray Ledger.
